Best Plastic Surgeon Nomination Process

The best plastic surgeons in America are pinpointed through widespread research and utilizing databases of information on significant medical doctor credentials.

Plastic surgeons are supposed to have prescribed expertise and experience in their field. Choosing the best plastic surgeons goes through the following stages:

- random selection from a proprietary system and databases of board certified plastic surgeons
- the reply to a standard question "If one of your loved ones needed medical attention in your field, which of your peers would you choose?" sent out in emails, faxes and the proprietary system
- in the same emails, the physicians log in with a username of their choice by which they submit their nominated peer
- all the information are collected in preparation for the next stage

At the next stage, information on the nominees is reviewed, like the appropriate status of their licenses, malpractice judgments and disciplinary actions.

The information is then cross-referenced with thirteen leased/owned doctor credential information databases to confirm complete nationwide licensure status and pertinent credential information.

Finally, the researchers collect all the pertinent data and review the pool of nominees for verification of their credentials.
